How to perform (09:30 – 10:30, 11:00 – 12:30, repeated)

The Ministry of Music will give professional guidance on how to communicate clearly and with an impact regardless of whether you are communicating face to face, on the telephone, speaking to a small group or making a presentation to a large audience. Host: Dennis Nørmark & Ministry of Music

Mind your body

12.00 – 12.30

We spend far too many hours hunched over our desks. This session will explain the opportunities they offer. Host: Anne Hørsted & Ministry of Music

How to get published

15:30 – 16:30

What do we do with manuscript objects that cannot be kept because they are degrading beyond saving? Is there an alternative to destroying them? Medical journals are developing a licensing system for "do not distr

Authorship is a key currency in researcher assessment. In the hypercompetitive environment of modern science, the number of first and last authors has become the predominant measure of a researcher’s success and has become a crucial and self-perpetuating factor for future recognition, funding and publication in high impact journals. At the DDA postdoc Winter School, we had the challenge to come up with an alternative idea of how to assess researchers. We developed the ReSciModel, that includes additional qualities and qualifications of what we believe makes a successful researcher. Making a new system for assessment of researchers is a highly complex process and we would like to help the fantastic scientific community here in the PhD to develop tools to do it. Hosts: Marie Sophie Isidor & Sarah Falk

Tips and guidelines

Download the Conference App to have your personal program of the day. It is called CM Events. Extra chairs are available, but please return them after use and tidy the room before you leave. If you need AV support, please ring 3512 7010.